Workshop content:

This workshop is for second language teachers who have some experience with TPRS and would like to learn more about how to use the method successfully in their classroom.

In this workshop participants will learn how to use the three key elements of storytelling in their second-language lesson planning. We will begin with how to develop and personalize the target vocabulary and structures with our students, how to use the vocabulary to co-create unusual and high-interest stories through "circling", personalized questions and dramatization and how to develop cultural understanding and literacy through reading.

In the last part of the workshop we will explore various ways in which we can assess our students in the TPRS classroom
